RMS Voted Top 100

(Grand Junction, CO) – Rocky Mountain Sanitation is in the top of its class again. The family-owned and operated Grand Junction based business was ranked in the Top 100 of waste and recycling firms in North America by Waste100. “We’re thrilled to be in the Top 100 again. We love what we do and wouldn’t be here without our great customers and team. This recognition helps further validate that our hard work and dedication over the past 17 years is truly paying off,” says Lisa Mullen, Owner of Rocky Mountain Sanitation.

In its 17-year history, Rocky Mountain Sanitation has been a Waste 100 company six times. This year RMS is ranked 92 on the list. “It’s pretty impressive considering our vast competition around the country. It feels good to be among the cream of the crop in our industry,” explains Mullen. The 2014 Waste 100 ranking was based solely on 2013 revenues.

Mullen credits the company’s success to top-notch customer service. “We strive to provide the very best service we can. We have a team of great employees who believe in our service philosophy and practice it every day,” Mullen adds.

RMS started in 1997 with just two trucks and one employee and has grown to 21 employees, 16 trucks, and a 6,000 sq. ft. office and shop on more than four acres. RMS currently offers residential, commercial, construction/roll-offs, portables, and commercial cardboard recycling.
